FESTIVAL WEEK.

The Odd Fellows Carnival a Big Success.

The Largest Crowds of the Week Expected To-day and Tomorrow.

The street fair is proving to be a thoroughly satisfactory carnival in all respects. The attendance since Tuesday has not been what it should be, but the line of attractions presented by the Robinson Amusement Company deserves nothing but praise.

There are ten or twelve shows and all are clean, moral and worthy exhibitions. The free attractions are all that was claimed for them. Nick Carter dives daily backward from a tower 110 feet high into a small tank of water.

Madame Sorocco ascends the spiral stairway enclosed in a ball. The Keach family give a varied performance on the trapeze twice each day.

Mr. Sam H. Joseph, the veteran show man, is Mr. Robinson's chief manager, and he is giving close personal attention to every detail. He has had much experience in the circus business, and is an invaluable man in his department.

The tent shows are being well patronized. Some of them are of such excellence that they are visited again and again. Two of the best shows on the ground are in front of Hotel Latham. One of them, Lenora, is a marvel and mystifies all who see it. The other, Dreamland, presents a constant round of fun.

The voting contest is attracting eager attention. The count yesterday showed the following parties have received more than 800 votes: No. 1. Lucien H. Davis, 3536 " 2. Gus Tandy, 2871 " 3. Geo. E. Randle, 2434 " 4. Miss Katie McDaniel, 926 " 5. Booth Morris, 830 Many others have received scattering votes. The contest will close today.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Only Minor Civil Cases Being Tried This Week.

But little business has been done in Circuit Court this week.

One small damage suit was tried Wednesday. J. R. Berry sued J. H. Kiser for damages and the jury awarded him $60.

The case of W. H. Deason against the L. & N. Railroad Company, claiming damages for being put off a train, was continued until the next term.

Marshal Cook's damage suit against his father, P. H. Cook, claiming $300 or $400 for timber cut, etc., was in progress yesterday and took up the whole day.

RETURNS TO CHRISTIAN.

Dr. Bell Will Resume Practice at Casky.

Dr. J. E. Bell, who formerly lived at Casky, has returned to this county to reside. He has purchased of Dr. L. B. Wilkerson his outfit at Casky and will resume the practice of medicine at that place. When Dr. Bell left here he went to California and for the past year has been assistant surgeon on the U. S. ship, Marble Head. During his absence he spent several months at Panama.

TRIGO COUNTEAN

Victim of a Runaway And Was Badly Bruised.

Mr. Ed Thomas, of Cadiz, while driving into the city Tuesday, was thrown from his buggy and sustained some bad bruises and cuts. The horse became frightened and ran off, throwing him from the vehicle. Mr. Thomas was taken to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. John Quick, where he received medical attention. It is not thought that his injuries will result seriously.

DRIVEN BACK.

Japanese Forced To Retire And Kuropatkin Claims Victory.

Weather Conditions Have Stopped Fighting For the Present.

With both armies exhausted by the long continued desperate fighting androads made impassable and stream banks full from the recent torrential rains, there has been a lull in the active operations along the Shikhe river. Latest dispatches say that yesterday passed quietly, and the brief advice bearing on the situation as existing today indicate that the battle has not been resumed.

The Russians still hold the important position of Lone Tree Hill, around which fighting of the most desperate character centered, and Gen. Sakharoff reports that their left flank has been slightly advanced. A veil is drawn over the general situation, but the net result of the tremendous battle seems to be that Oyama, while effectually checking the Russian advance, has been unable to follow it up with a vital blow, and has himself been stayed in his attempts to materially advance his position.

A dispatch from Mukden says that the Japanese appear to be slowly falling back, but Sakharoff reports to St. Petersburg that they are concentrating at Linshing, west of the railroad. Kuropatkin is strengthening his right, and the dispatches indicate that the battle will be resumed as soon as the roads dry.

A Tokyo dispatch says that no advices from the front were received last night or today.

Ophthalmoscope and Retinoscope - Combined.

An up-to-date instrument for the diagnosis of the pathological condition of the interior of the eye without the use of a dark room or mydriatics to dilate the pupil. By its use all errors of refraction are detected and measured to an absolute certainty, without asking the patient any questions—thereby leaving the operator independent of the intelligence of the patient. It is the latest and most wonderful production of optical science. By its use the retina (veins and arteries), is seen as clearly as the patient's face. This is a costly instrument, but as I have been always deeply interested, and made a specialty of examining and fitting of glasses to the eye. I have kept up to date with the latest and best methods and instruments and feel that the best is none too good for my patrons. They may rest assured that they will get the latest and best service obtainable anywhere—derived from long years of practical experience with up-to-date appliances and for the least money. SOMETHING OF A PUZZLE.

Let One for Which It Is Not Difficult to Furnish a Fair Answer.

The New York Times publishes the following anecdote:—
"A banker on his way home found a ten dollar bill, took down the number of it, put it in his pocket, and went on his way rejoicing. When he reached home the butcher was there with a meat bill of $10. The banker paid the butcher the ten he had found. The butcher paid the same ten to the printer, and the printer to the grocer, and the grocer to the banker. He noticed that it was the same bill which he had found, and at the same time noticed that it was a counterfeit. Who was the loser?"

No one was the loser, to be sure, asserts the Milwaukee Wisconsin. But who was the winner? The story does not represent the banker as insolvent, and it is to be presumed he was not dependent upon the accident of finding the bill in the street for ability to pay his butcher. Had he paid the butcher in genuine money, the butcher would have been enabled to pay the printer, and the printer to pay the grocer, and the grocer to pay the banker, so that in that event the chain of accounts would have been liquidated just the same. Nobody was any richer for the finding of the counterfeit, for it returned to the hands of the one who had innocently placed it in circulation, and in coming to him it wiped out a claim which he held against another as large as the claim against him to satisfy which he had paid it out. Had the finder of the bill been a dishonest or irresponsible man, the counterfeit might sooner or later have wrought injury. The accident of its return to the banker, who, of course, retired it from circulation when he found out its real character, brought its career to a harmless conclusion, leaving the banker and everybody else no richer and no poorer than they would have been if the medium employed in squaring the series of accounts had been a genuine bank note. But the anecdote illustrates nothing in particular, unless it be that honest people won't cheat.

THE CURSE OF FLANNELS.

Recollections of Corroding Bitterness of Spirit Engendered by the Red Kind.

At the age of six, I found myself—infelix!—removed to a town possessing a bleak climate and many woolen manufacturing, writes Winifred Kirkland, in Atlantic. It was the custom of the home mothers to buy flannel by the piece direct from the factory, red flannel, hot, thick, felled like a Laplander, and the invention of Lucifer. Out of this flannel was cut a garment, a continuous, all-embracing garment, of neuter gender, in which every child in that town might have been observed flailing Mephistophelean-like after the morning bath. A pattern was given to our mother. The hair shirt—I laugh when I read! By definition the hair shirt must have possessed geographic limits of attack; but my flannels left no pore unlicked, untormented; they heated the flesh unmercifully, and they soured the milk of amiability in me forever. The rotation of the seasons reduced itself to terms of red flannel. In the autumn, when the happy fowls and foliage alike moulted, shed the superfluities, when bracing October set the body in a glow, a lone of living things must be done up in flannel! And spring, that season of vernal bourgeoisie, was the time when I, too, like any other school tin, slipped free of all stuffy in vestings, and could sprout and spring in air and sun, clad in blessed, blessed muslin. I shall never forget the corroding bitterness induced by flannels. At times they absolutely reduced me to listlessness with my religion, so that filial piety, the ordaining of the seasons, and the very catechism itself hung in the balance of the conflict. I believe I can hardly overstate the spiritual detriment done me by flannels.

MOST ANCIENT HIGHWAY.

One of the Oldest Routes in the World Used by Caravans of the Arabians.

The road from Homs to Hamar runs almost due north, a straight white line cutting across the green fields. It is one of the oldest routes in the world. Caravans have been passing along it for at least 5,000 years, just as we saw them—long strings of slow-moving camels with their brightly-colored bags of wheat, says Scribner's Magazine.

One could almost imagine that Pharaoh was again calling down the corn of Hamath to fill his granaries against the seven years of famine. But even here the old things are passing. Just beyond the long line of camels was a longer line of fellah women, their dirty blue robes lifted above their knees, carrying upon their shoulders baskets of earth and stone for the roadbed of the new French railway. The carriage road is French, too, and a very good road it is. Some men were repairing it with a most ingenious roller. It was a great round stone, drawn by two oxen, and having its axle prolonged by a 20-foot pole, at the end of which a bare-legged Arab was fastened to balance the whole affair. If the stone had toppled over the picture of the Arab dangling at the top of the slender flagstaff would have been worth watching.

All along the ride we were reminded of the past. It is a fertile soil, but the very wheat fields are different from ours. Only a few yards in width, they are often of tremendous length. I hesitated to commit myself to figures, but it is certain that the thin, green fields would stretch away in the distance until lost over some little elevation. At one place the road was cut through a hill honeycombed with rock tombs, which the haj said were Jewish. Every now and then we passed a tell, or great hemispherical mound, built up of the rubbish of a dozen ruined towns, for even as late as Roman times this was a well-cultivated and populous country. There is now no lumber available for building purposes, and in a number of villages the houses are built with conical roofs of stone. Where the rock happens to be of a reddish tinge the houses remind one of nothing so much as a collection of Indian wigwags; where the stone is white, as at Tell el Bish, it glitters and sparkles like a fairy city out of last sugar.

SETTLING MEXICAN STRIKE

Agitators Speedily Taken in Hand by Government and Summarily Dealt With.

"Strikes are unknown in the Mexican mines," said Dr. Frank J. Toussaint, in speaking about conditions in Mexico, where, according to the Milwaukee Sentinel, he spends considerable of his time. "While down on my recent trip to Huapac, Sonora, I heard of an attempt to strike. The men, urged on by a number of agitators, formulated a protest against their hours and wages and threatened to go out on a strike if their demands were not complied with. The operators scarcely had time to look over the demands made by their men when word came from the government in Mexico City to arrest the agitators immediately. Those who hailed from the states were unceremoniously deported and the Mexican miners who had been led by these unfortunates went back to their work, or to speak more properly, they continued their work, as they had not yet quit work."

"To get a mining claim in Mexico is the easiest thing in the world; all you have to do is to find some stone, tree, or other mark, and then draw an imaginary line around as much of a tract as you want and then make your denouncement. This will cost you $32.50. A surveyor will then be sent out and measure off as many rods as you want. He will take about $100 for his services. The plot which he prepares now goes to the capital and in due course of time you will be asked to pay a tax equal to about $10 for a parcel of land the size of a city block. The tax must be paid annually and as long as you do this you will be considered the owner of that claim."

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Hopkinsville Household Will Find Them So.

To have pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comfort to words to hundreds of Hopkinsville readers.

Mrs. J. T. Johnson, wife of J. T. Johnson, superintendent of streets, living at 616 N. Main street says: "During the latter part of last summer I noticed growing upon me a dull aching across the small of my back which kept getting worse until finally the pain became so severe that I was hardly able to walk around, and many times could not attend to my household duties. The trouble I believe came from the kidneys for I suffered from other distressing symptoms of this complaint. I was subject to the most severe headaches and frequent attacks of dizziness. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and my husband got a box for me at Thomas & Traher's drug store. They did me a wonderful amount of good. I do not know what I should have done if it had not been for Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"Here Keller day," named in honor of Miss Helen Adams Keller, of Boston, who, born deaf, dumb and blind, has acquired national fame through her educational success, and the only person in whose honor the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company has designated a special day, was celebrated at the World's Fair grounds Tuesday, with exercises participated in by prominent educators of the deaf, dumb and blind from all parts of the United States.

The total registered vote in Owensboro is 3535. Of these 1786, or more than one half, are Democrats. There are 1457 Republicans, 262 non-committal and 30 prohibitionists. The Democrats are assured of a good majority.

The Course of Silver Democrats.

Early in the campaign the Republicans had hoped for a defection on the part of the Silver Democrats in Kentucky. They had burdened the mails with literature, sent at the expense of the Government, pointing out how badly the silver men had been treated at St. Louis and urging them to knife the ticket as the only means of revenge for the alleged insults that had been heaped upon Mr. Bryan. But the source of these suggestions was so apparent that the silver men, who represent the real bone and sinew of Democracy in this State, consigned the stuff to the waste basket.

They had nothing in the St. Louis platform that they can not subscribe to. It contains every cardinal principle of Democracy, only failing to refer to the money question, because there are graver problems pressing for settlement. If Mr. Bryan can grow enthusiastic over Parker and Davis, and there is no denying the sincerity of his advocacy, every free silver man in this, or any other state, can follow his leadership, confident that they are not stultifying themselves and that they are doing the only possible thing that could result in Democratic harmony and victory.

Tom Taggart and Indiana.

Those who complained of listlessness in the conduct of the National campaign have no right to enter an objection now. There never was a more thorough organization in a Presidential contest. Every committee man's work is laid out for him, and there is no sign of shirking anywhere. Judge Parker is in constant touch with headquarters. Chairman Taggart is alive to the situation in the doubtful States. His practical knowledge of politics is of inestimable value to the party. He has made no blunders. With the skill of a Japanese general he has found the weak spots in the enemy's ranks, and when it has been necessary he has charged the seemingly impregnable heights, or has flanked them and driven them out of entrenched positions.

LION'S SHARE

Of Prizes Captured by Kentucky Exhibitors.

Two Medals Won by Hopkinsville People, on Tobacco and Corn.

Kentucky stands far up in the lead in the list of awards made to the exhibitors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, having a total of 186, divided as follows: Six grand prizes, thirty-five gold medals, fifty-three silver medals, seventy-five bronze medals. This record, too, is made in the face of the fact that there were only three Kentuckians on the jury of awards.

Those who have studied Kentucky's exhibits at the fair expected the International Jury of Awards to recognize some of the merits of Kentucky's representation, but they could not have hoped for the result obtained—186 awards. It is indeed a remarkable record—one that no State will beat and few, if any, will equal.

Tobacco Pre-eminent.

The weed that Sir Walter Raleigh made respectable and that Kentucky made famous occupies four big blocks—each block covering over 4,600 square feet—in the central nave of the Palace of Agriculture, and the Kentucky exhibit has one fourth of the entire space. All the tobacco States—Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Connecticut—lined up here against Kentucky and the competition was keen. But the jury knew a good thing and Kentucky walked off with five grand prizes, thirteen gold medals, thirteen silver medals and eighteen bronze medals. One of the grand prizes was given to the State of Kentucky for the best exhibit of the kind in the entire twenty-four acres of displays in the building. It was marked '98, three more than necessary to bring it within the grand prize charmed circle. The other four grand prizes went to individual exhibitors.

The list of awards on tobacco is not really complete for the reason twenty-two instead of thirteen gold medals and twenty-seven instead of eighteen bronze medals were recommended by the group jury which made the examination, but owing to a ruling of the department jury that only one medal could be awarded an exhibitor in a given group, the number was correspondingly reduced, as several exhibitors had been voted two medals each.

The following awards were made to Western Kentucky people:

Wm. H. Cummings & Sons, Hopkinsville, leaf tobacco, African types, gold medal.
Z. T. Flower, Olmstead, leaf tobacco, dark, grand prize.
Gallaher Ltd, Owensboro, Green River, gold medal.

E. W. Gunn, Adairville, leaf tobacco, dark, gold medal.

Seventy-Five in Agriculture.

Awards to the number of seventy-five in Kentucky's general agricultural exhibit have not satisfied the director of exhibits for the Kentucky commission. And he has appealed to the superior jury for a grand prize on the exhibit as a whole, and there is every reason to believe this request will be granted. The seventy-five awards are divided eight golds, eleven silvers, and fifty-six bronzes. It was in this exhibit that the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, of Lexington, made such a remarkable record. It received three gold medals and one silver medal, and as all four were under different groups, it will be allowed to retain the total number. The list includes: Miss M. E. Ratcliff, Paducah, preserves, strawberry and blackberry, bronze medal.

Dwyer & Brothers, Guthrie, leaf tobacco, dark, bronze medal.

C. W. Hawkins, Owensboro, wheat, silver medal.

J. R. Kirby, Smith's Grove, or chard grass seed, silver medal.

THREE TRAMPS

Killed Near Wingo While Stealing a Ride.

An I. C. freight train was wrecked at Wingo, Sunday morning, and three tramps, a white man named Thompson, of Water Valley, an unknown white man, and a negro were killed. The train was going down a grade when it broke in two, and two of the cars telescoped, crushing the tramps, who were stealing a ride. It is supposed that the men cut the air hose of the train so that it would stop at Water Valley, which is just below Wingo, and Thompson could get off. Thompson lived a few minutes. The others were dead when found.

AT PLAY IN SAMOA HER LEAP FOR LIFE

THE SIMPLE RECREATIONS OF
THE ISLAND NATIVES.

Cricket, Marbles and Mummy-Peg Played by Young and Old by the Simple Folk Stevenson Loved.

Apia, Island of Samoa--One is almost puzzled to divide the daily life of our ocean neighbor into those accepted allotments, work and play. It is possible, however, that in time even the daily plucking of flowers becomes a task and the few moments required to spend the sleeping moments in the sun or to gather the over-hanging fruit suf-

PLAYING MUMMY-PEG.

Scient for the day would use up all of one's surplus energy.

As the Samoans are of a simple and childlike disposition, their amusements partake of the same character and it takes but little to delight them. Baseball has not found its way thither, even with the advent of the American, but cricket is their most popular game.
There is but little difference made between the sexes in these flowery tales, so that the fairer portion of the community joins with equal fervor in the game. Cricket or cri-keet, as they term it, is hardly played according to standard rules. To begin with, instead of 11 on a side there may be any number from 10 to 50, or double that number, often one village of 50 or 100 playing against another village of perhaps only 15 or 20.
There is no hard feeling, however, and all the bystanders applaud. The game sometimes runs on for two or three days, but is ordinarily just as interesting in the last contest as in the beginning.

Some enterprising trader has made a great sum from the introduction of marbles, about in excited groups or kneeling at the game. It is most amusing to see a stalwart chief come strutting by, and catching sight of some favorite opponent, stop, produce a handful of marbles from the folds of his loin cloth, and squatting upon the ground enter into the game with all the zest of the 10-year-old.

It frequently happens that the players will congregate in such numbers in the public thoroughfare that the native police will come up, confiscate some of the marbles and disperse the crowd. I was quite interested with the promptness with which he attended to this duty until one day I discovered him with a few of his cronies having a quiet little game with the confiscated marbles. There is

A CRICKET PLAYER.

never any trouble nor violence and the games go happily on.

Across from the hotel is a large native hut, which contains several pastimes and seemingly untold visitors and relatives. Here all sorts of games are hourly in progress, but the most interesting is that played by the boxer-headed grand-sires. Two old wrinkled men will sit for hours over a game of small stones, similar to that youthful delight, "Jack stones." Here also may be seen nearly every day an old man crouched opposite to an equally old tremendously fat woman and with a little knife they will play mummy-peg for hours.

It is the most delightful thing to see old and young living on a common basis, everything, even to the games in the street, being shared alike.

A GIRL'S HEROIC PLUNGE INTO THE COLORADO RIVER.

Caught by a Herd of Stamped Cat-tles on a Long Suspension Bridge
--Horse and Rider Go Down Together.

Not many months ago, Miss Blou-thorn, who is one of the loveliest girls in Texas, was out riding on horseback.
Nearly the road passed over the great suspension bridge, and spans the Colorado river.

She had trotted about a quarter of the way over when the sound of heavy hoofs caused her to glance around. Not a hundred yards behind a great cloud of dust floated in the hot air. And in this cloud a great herd of oxen was thundering straight towards her.

With eyes afloat, and hollowing loud and ominously, they rushed on to the bridge.

In spite of the awful fear that assailed her, the girl never for a moment lost her presence of mind. She glanced before her. Far away--it looked an interminable distance--she could see the end of the bridge. There only was safety. But was it possible to reach refuge before the oxen overtook them?

Her eyes fell upon the horse. Blazer
--that is the animal's name--was swift and sure of foot.

"Now, Blazer, go!" the girl commanded, lightning her grip upon the reins, and bringing her whip down on his flank.

A bound; the horse had answered to the call. They were off--to safety?
But, no, something was happening that the girl had not foreseen. Under the huge weight of the living avalanche
the great suspension bridge was swaying heavily. The movement caused the horse to stumble.

There came a mighty roar and the thunder of many hoofs. The herd was on them. Pale, but collected, the girl reined her horse round, and faced the mad onslaught.

Now, a young bull, its head bent low between its fore legs, thundered by;
another followed, old and heavily
With nose almost touching the ground

THUNDERED STRAIGHT TOWARDS HER.

and head tilted sideways, it made straw for them, then swerved aside, grazing the chestnut's flank with its sharp horns.

Still the terrified girl never for a moment lost her self-possession, but cast around for some other means of escape. Only one loophole presented itself to her. Far below she could see the swirling, muddy waters of the Colorado.

For an instant she hesitated and patron the neck of her trembling steed.
Would he make that awful leap? She faced him towards the railing.

"Go, Blazer, leap!" the girl cried out.
And lo! the horse leaped, bearing his fair mistress on his back down, down, into the swift-running Colorado.

On the river bank a dozen cowboys had seen the gallant leap. Voiceless with excitement they watched both the girl and steed disappear with a great splash beneath the water.

At last the horse arose--ridiculous.
For a few minutes the animal swam around in a circle, as if in search of something.

Five yards away a figure appeared above the water and swam toward the shore. A minute more and the girl had clambered into the saddle. Then, with a delighted sigh, the horse swam quickly to the shore.

Springing from their saddles, the cowboys sent up cheer after cheer, and ran to the brink to assist the brave girl. Six rough, willing hands were outstretched to her, whilst one cowboy, filled with admiration for the faithful horse, put out his hands and embraced his glory seek affectionately.

Native American Music.
There is hidden among the mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee and the Carolina a people of whose inner nature and its musical expression almost nothing has been said. The music of the southern mountaineer is not only peculiar, but like his himself, peculiarly American. Nearly all mountaineers are plogers. Their untuned voices are of good stature, the women's being sweet and high and tremulous and their sense of pitch and tone and harmony remarkably true. The fiddler or the banjo player is well treated and beloved among them, like a minstrel of feudal days.

CONVENTIONS

In Every Voting Precinct to Be Held Tomorrow.

Tobacco Men Are Desperately In Earnest About Organization.

Farmers should not forget the precinct meetings called at their respective voting places for tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, to take action on the Tobacco Question. The chairman for each of the 24 meetings to be held were designated the first of the week and appeared in Tuesday's Kentuckian. One of the objects of the meetings will be to receive signatures to the constitution and by-laws of the district organization.

Without some sort of organization the tobacco growers are helpless in the hands of the trust. Last winter the farmers were forced to sell below the cost of production. With wheat selling at two prices and tobacco at half price it is easy to see what the trust is doing to the people.

A FINE SHOW.

Bert Marshall's Comedians Are Taking a Big Hit.

Bert Marshall's comedians opened at the opera house last night. Three nights' engagement will be one of the best shows in the season. The specialties were an first class and of a high order. Bert Marshall, the comedian, kept the audience in one continual uproar of laughter.

and is certain a comedian of first class order. Miss Anna Glavin sang a number of songs, showing a beautiful and well trained voice. Harris and Woods scored a hit in their ragtime singing and piano playing. The farce comedy, "A Night in New York," was a cleverly gotten together lot of foolishness and kept the large audience convulsed with laughter the whole time. The company is a first class in every respect. The company will show again tonight and tomorrow night and deserves to be greeted by large audiences.

The count was quickly taken and the result ascertained. The Republican have made no nomination for the place and Mr. Benton will probably be elected without opposition.

A NOVEL PROPOSITION.

As Seen By an Advocate of Female Suffrage.

To his address at the Congressional Arts and Sciences in St. Louis, James Bryce, a member of the British Parliament and the author of "The American Commonwealth," discussed the question of civil service reform. He said that it is to purify the system those holding office under it should be dismissed. "The public servant," he said, "should be forbidden to speak canvass or write on any political subject."

The Louisville Courier says: This is rather a novel proposition for consideration in the country of unlimited suffrage.

What a singular idea of unlimited suffrage men have when they apply the phrase to a country in which about half the citizens are disfranchised on account of race. As long as this condition exists a proposition to disfranchise a given class can properly be called "novel."

Mr. Bryce sees in certain of our institutions grave danger to the "republic," but it never occurs to him or to his critics that this has never been a republic except in name. The time has come when America must either restrict the right of suffrage still further and thus grow less and less a republic, or else confer the right of suffrage on all citizens and begin the hitherto untried experiment of letting the people rule. Not some of the people, but all of the people.—Lida Calvert Obenchain.

GEORGETOWN REPUBLICAN.

Judge Sauley Makes an Important Ruling in Suburban Case.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 18.—Judge Sauley, presiding over the Scott county Circuit Court in Carroll place, has given an opposite decision to that rendered years ago in the case of Zeff Gaskie vs. the City of Georgetown.

This means much politically. An ordinance was passed by the City Council throwing out a negro suburb. They claim that it was an expense to the city and such disposal was contested, but the ordinance was upheld by Judge Carroll.

The Court of Appeals sent the case back for a rehearing with the reverse result before Judge Sauley.

A little over 100 Republican votes, which controlled the balance of power, were at stake. This makes the town largely Republican.

The Delineator for November.

Those who follow every caprice of fashion, as well as those who have only the usual desire to appear becomingly dressed, will find the November Delineator exceptionally interesting and suggestive, while in the matter of fiction and general literature an equally high standard is maintained. The second part of Richard Le Gallienne's exquisite dream tale, "Poet, Talker," contains some most admirable lyrics, and there is also a kernel of the Western Coast by Ethel Watts Mumford, and a short story by Dane Coolidge, "Lon Turkey of Pinal," containing many elements of interest and originality.

W. Jay Mills has procured the material for a most interesting chronicle of the social events and personages of Old New York, which given in this number of the magazine and illustrated with photographs never before published. W. G. Fitz Gerald tells the story of the trials and heroism of the missionary abroad, in an article that is graphically illustrated. The romance of Mozart and his stance is related in the "Comet" series. Dress in its relation to health is discussed by Dr. G. Peckham Murray, and there is a delightful paper in the "Joy of Living" series, while for the young people, Ada Marie Peck, and Bert Bigelow Paris contribute pleasant and instructive reading. The interests of the home are tried thoroughly, with regard to special demands of the Thanksgiving season.
